Car Slips Off Bridge
Friends of Mrs. George Hull, daughter of General and Mrs. J. Fred Pearson, are congratulating her on her narrow escape from serious injury last night when her automobile slipped off Green Bridge, on the Ocean Drive near Mr. Jerome C. Borden's summer residence. Mrs. Hull had just turned the curve when the steering gear jammed. Before she could stop the car it had cleared away a section of the protecting fence and had lopped over so that the front wheels were in the water. Mrs. Hull and two women companions escaped without a scratch, and were taken immediately to their home by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who was passing in her machine.

Plans were made to-day for a men's tennis tournament to be started at the Casino Friday morning, play to be completed by Sunday.

The suggestion has been made that the teams play off their tie game next season and the proceeds be used to purchase a new ambulance for the city.

Episcopalians May Reinstall Pacifist Bishop

Liberal Element in Convention Favors Recognition of Paul Jones, Who Quit Under Pressure in War

Announced His Socialism
Committee Is to Consider Closer Relations With Hungarian Congregations

By Rev. Dr. E. C. Chorley
PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 12.—The re-election of the Rt. Rev. Paul Jones, formerly Missionary Bishop of Utah, to the active Episcopate, is being advocated here by some of the liberals in the Episcopal Convention. Owing to the pacifist position taken by Bishop Jones during the war and the fact that he announced himself as a socialist, pressure was brought to bear upon him to resign his jurisdiction and he is now a Bishop without a charge and serves as secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation and president of the Church Socialist League. It is believed that he will be nominated at this convention as Missionary Bishop of Eastern Oregon if the resignation of Bishop R. L. Paddock is accepted by the House of Bishops.

At the national session of the House of Bishops a memorial of some of the clergy and laity of the diocese of Los Angeles was presented by Bishop J. Johnson, of Los Angeles, and an unfettered vote in Holy Communion was taken. The memorial was to whom its use is a matter of conscience. It was referred to a committee. Later in the session the House of Bishops will be called upon to consider the use of the common cup in the communion service. It will come before the House in the shape of an open letter addressed to Bishop William Manning, by the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City.

Ordination Charge Deferred
Constitutional amendments conferring the power to ordain men not in this church were deferred until the bishops could consider the proposed concordat with congregational ministers. Other amendments designed to increase the powers of the provinces were defeated.

Bishop Paul Matthews, of New Jersey, presented a report on closer relations with the reformed Hungarian congregations. The report was received with a great deal of interest, and was referred to a special committee.

The House of Bishops also considered a report on the work of the House of Deputies. The report was received with a great deal of interest, and was referred to a special committee.

"Obey" Dropped from Ritual
By thirty-six to twenty-seven the bishops voted to omit the word "obey" from the marriage service.

The bishops in executive session accepted the resignation of Robert L. Paddock, missionary bishop of Eastern Oregon, for the past fifteen years.

While there was no question as to the integrity and honor of Bishop Paddock, there has been considerable criticism as to the policy he has pursued in his jurisdiction.

Board to Urge More Speed on New Schools
Should Have 59 - Room Buildings in 8 Months Each, Says Ferguson as Reports of Crowding Pour In

Double Classes Held
Broad Channel Pupils Have No Place at All Because of Dispute Over Rent

At the meeting of the Board of Education to-day one of the most important subjects which will come up for discussion will be the report of the committee on the schools, thought by some of the officials to be worse than last year through the record enrollment of approximately 100,000 pupils on Monday.

Dr. John A. Ferguson, chairman of the committee on buildings and sites, is hoping that some action will be taken in reference to the present slow movement in the building of new schools.

"I want to see the time when we can build a fifty-nine-room school within eight months," he said.

Hampered by Split Contracts
He explained that the authorities have been unable to let a contract for any one entire building to one concern. They are limited to contracts of not more than $25,000, and as a result there are many contractors at work on each building, none of whom is responsible to any of the others.

Reports from many of the schools yesterday, on the second day of the new school year, showed that the congestion was as serious as had been predicted. In one instance children found themselves without a school to attend.

At the Girls' High School in Brooklyn it was said yesterday that the registration of first year pupils had been stopped and that in several of the other classes double sessions were being held.

The Boys' Commercial and Bushwick High schools had had a similar experience, many pupils as seats and in each case double sessions were necessary.

At the Coney Island Public School and Public Schools 80 and 82, also in Coney Island, double sessions were being held, and it was said that some of the pupils were receiving only two hours of instruction daily.

In the eleven schools of the Greenpoint section and the fifteen in Williamsburg, the registration has increased by about 50 per cent over tenement, due in some cases to new tenement houses near the schools.

His Books Held Lawful, Seltzer Says He'll Sue

Court Dismisses Complaint of Obscenity by Summer; Rules 3 Works Have Considerable Literary Merit

Likes 'Young Girl's Diary'
Eminent Physicians and Critics Cited; Criticizes Policy of Pouncing on Frankness

The charge of publishing obscene literature, brought by John S. Summer, secretary of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, against Thomas Seltzer, a publisher, of 5 West Fifth Street, was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate George W. Simpson in the Municipal Term Court.

The book upon which the complaint was based, and which were seized in large numbers from the Seltzer offices, were "Casanova's Homecoming," by Arthur Schnitzler; "Women in Love," by D. H. Lawrence, and "A Young Girl's Diary," an anonymous volume, which purports to be the actual diary of a Viennese schoolgirl during adolescence.

Magistrate Simpson's decision refers to the testimony of literary critics praising the books as important contributions to the literature and thought of the age, and to the opinion of "two physicians of eminence," who, he said, "testified that 'A Young Girl's Diary' has a great educational value in sex education of the young."

He did not say anything in these books which may be considered obscene, lewd, filthy, indecent, lascivious or disgusting," the magistrate said. "On the contrary, I find that each of them is a distinct contribution to the literature of the present day. Each of the books deals with one or another of the phases of current thought. They are not written in a manner which would incite impure imaginations and lustful desire in the reader of ordinary intelligence."

"Books will not be banned by the law," the decision says, "merely because they do not serve a useful purpose or teach any moral lesson. I have read these three books with sedulous care, following the tests laid down by the cases in which the constitutionality of laws of this kind has been tested, and I find them to be of high literary and scientific value, and to be of great educational value."

"Pornographic tides should be stemmed, but distinction must be drawn between the exact violation of the law and the mere suggestion of obscenity and that which the higher courts allow and sanction. It has been said with some justice that the policy of pouncing upon books too frank for the tastes of the average reader is the motive or purpose for which they are written or to the use to which they are put, is objectionable and should be curbed."

Mrs. Caruso's Mother Dies In Sanitarium

Invalid 12 Years, Mrs. Park Benjamin's Death Is With In Month of Husband's; Complicates Fight on Will

Lawyer Accused by Son
Park Benjamin Jr. Says His Father Neglected Wife; Let Caruso Pay Hospital Bills

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Park Benjamin, mother of Mrs. Enrico Caruso, who had been a patient in a sanatorium at Goshen for the last twelve years, died suddenly there last night. She was fifty-six years old.

Mrs. Park Benjamin survived her husband, widely known tenor singer, by less than a month, and her death adds further complication to the contest which her children indicated they would bring over their father's half-million-dollar will.

This week Mrs. Benjamin disinterested all of the children for their alleged undue conduct, let $60,000 and all personal effects to Miss Anna Bolchi Benjamin, an adopted daughter, with the provision that the residue of the estate, let the invalid widow, upon her death also should go to Miss Bolchi.

In making public the evidence upon which the children expected to base their contest, Park Benjamin Jr. asserted that since the advent of Miss Bolchi into the family circle the father had been cruelly neglected by his invalid wife. The widow went to the sanatorium in 1910. Until 1919, the younger Benjamin said, his father had paid for her maintenance and visited her.

When Miss Bolchi arrived from Italy, and attracted the lawyer by indications of musical talent, Mr. Benjamin ceased his visits to the sanatorium. When, in 1920, Dr. F. W. Seward, who conducted the sanatorium, announced an increase in maintenance charges because of the war, the younger Benjamin said his father refused to pay them, and that Dr. Seward then announced he would keep Mrs. Benjamin on a semi-charity basis, as her condition demanded special care.

When Enrico Caruso, whose action in wedding Dorothy Benincosa, a girl of paternal age, was said to have come to the invalid's assistance, maintaining his mother-in-law until her death.

The younger Benjamin said yesterday he did not know what effect the death of his mother would have on the plans of her children to contest their father's will, under the terms of which Miss Bolchi would come into possession of the entire estate. Mr. Benjamin said plans were in abeyance, with Mrs. Caruso still in Italy.

Mr. Benjamin also said he was unable to state at present the exact value of the estate, as the inventory had only just been started.
